And Again.

Stocks are again on the sick list and the old questions recur, "What's the matter now?" "What is the reason?" &c. Smith, who is in and can't get out, says he thinks there will be a rise before holidays. While Brown, who sold out at a profit, "wouldn't be surprised if they went to bedrock again." Jones has a point given in confidence, while Thompson, having sunk his floating capital and been sold out, wishes that stocks were in Halifax.

These are some of the various opinions held, and yet not one of these worthy men stops to think that he is working for some stock sharp. He would rather make something out of stocks than improve his home and as a consequence he don't make it. When mice want the bit of cheese that lays in the trap, they are in danger. Some escape with the loss of a tail; some don't escape at all; and when Smith and others realize that this stock trap with its alluring bait was set for rats of his size, his financial head will not be pinched so often. On second thought we don't believe, however, that it would make any difference. Having escaped once, he would never rest until he was caught again. So it is of very little use to speak of the matter.

The following explanation of the recent decline will, however, show how easily the trap is sprung when the requisite number of nibbles are inside. The Alta says:

There is hardly a doubt but that the movements to crush stocks were in contemplation long before they were put in force, and to make them effectual, every assistance and every ally was employed. For several weeks the market was fed with all the stock it could carry, and so shrewd the manipulators that no more was given out than it could stand. Although this constant contribution of stock had the effect to weaken the market and cause it to shade off, yet so skillfully was it manipulated that all shrinkages were only gradual, and so deceptive that but very few regarded the changes going on as anywhere dangerous, and not until the opening of the market last week were the great majority of operators alarmed, but always hoping for the change, they held on until by circumstances forced to sell. In this movement to force people out of their shares, many elements were combined with the "bears," and from the banks calling in their loans, it looks as if these moneyed institutions were in league with them. The heavy sales of the bonanza shares contributed materially to the shrinkages in the balance of the shares, and their depreciation was of the most serious assistance to those that demoralized the market.

Tilden got excited the other night in New York and said something about having been robbed, and swearing that the Government should be restored to the people, and so on. Tilden is the beloved leader of the Democracy, and a considerable portion of his party are just now engaged in trying to clip his wings to prevent any flight in the future.

It is about as difficult for one to determine the destiny of the silver dollar as to capture a flea without unfair advantage. The latest is to the effect that Senator Jones and friends are to be disappointed. Industrious editors all over the country are clamoring for some sort of a dollar.

The San Francisco Chronicle asserts that the bankers of San Francisco are unanimous in opposition to the double standard as proposed by Senator Jones.

Elko Post: It has become a marked custom in a large number of our eastern states to offer premiums at their annual fairs for handsome babies, and this exhibit is universally pronounced the most interesting in the list. We think the managers of the State Fair at Reno should have included this interesting feature in their programme, and should have offered a good premium for the handsomest baby in the State. Such a course would have brought to the fair a perfect flood of infantile humanity, and, as every mother regards her own "little ducky mucky" as the very acme of perfection the competition would have been lively. It would also buoy up the matrimonial market and create in the breasts of the ladies a desire to excel in this branch of industry. Let us by all means add this to our yearly exhibits, and it will at once take its position as the leading feature of our fairs. Due notice should be given, so competitors can have ample time to prepare for the event.

The crisis is still on in France. MacMahon is bound to have his way, and the popular sentiment seems to be that he must resign in order to solve the difficulty.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: William Henry Smith, Collector of Customs, Edwin A. Merritt, Surveyor, and L. Bradford Prince, Naval Officer for the Port of New York; Robert T. Smith, Collector of Customs for Mobile; Jewell Palmer, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifteenth District of Ohio; E. Platt Stratton of New York, Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels for the Second District; John Scheinbath of Ohio the same for the Seventh District; Lewis Heyl of Pennsylvania, to be Appraiser of Merchandise, under the provisions of section 3003 of the Revised Statutes; Wm. Stoughton, of New York, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States in Russia; Gabriel C. Wharton, to be United States Attorney for Kentucky, and Lewis E. Parsons, the same for the Northern and Middle District of Alabama; John Oglesby, of Louisiana, Assistant Appraiser of Merchandise, and James Lewis, Naval Officer for New Orleans; General Guilford Milley Wells of Mississippi, to be United States Consul-General at Shanghai. Consuls—J. T. McLain, Jr., of Ohio, at Nassau; John A. Campbell of Wyoming, at Basle. United States Marshals—Owen P. Fitzsimmons, for Georgia; M. J. Waldron, for the Western District of Tennessee; Charles Allen, for the Western District of Missouri.

UNFORTUNATE.—Harry Mighels, editor of the Carson Appeal, and an able writer and speaker, is threatened with the loss of an eye. An ulcer having formed on the pupil of one eye, Mr. Mighels has been forced to give up all use of his sight in obedience to medical advice. The sufferer no doubt has more consolation than comfort just now, still we offer our kind wishes in all sincerity and hope for a speedy recovery.

The press is becoming very quarrelsome lately. It don't like corporations; neither workingmen's parties; nor savings banks. And now comes the Marysville Appeal and says that if New York would leave Cleopatra's Needle where it stands, and feed and clothe the poor, she would do better work.

Senator Morton is very low, and is only supported by opiates and nutritious acids, which are injected under the skin. His physician does not anticipate any immediate change for the worse; but it is conceded that the present condition must soon change.

Edwin Adams, the actor, is dead. He is remembered as a scholar and warm hearted gentleman.

SOWING WHEAT.—If corn ground, the corn should be gathered, and then with a good two horse turning plow let the ground be plowed, and be sure to turn under all the weeds and grass. The cornstalks should also be placed along in the furrows and covered with the plow; all will impart more or less fertility to the soil. If stubble or clover land, the same process. When done, sow from one to two bushels of good, clean wheat, being governed by quality of soil. If corn ground, take a heavy brush, leveling the ground well with it; if stubble or clover, follow a heavy iron tooth harrow, with which level the surface. If you are not supplied with a harrow, the brush will answer. This done, and you will be almost certain to have a good crop of wheat. It has been ascertained that great benefit may be derived by running a harrow over the ground in the spring of the year, breaking the crust formed by the beating rains of winter, without injury to the young wheat. —Southern Farmer.

Our chief want in life, according to Emerson, is somebody to make us do what we can. Many a man trundles wearily up stairs with an armful of wood to a red-headed woman, and ever thinks of this.

He ran somewhat hastily into the cigar store and said, pompously, "Give me one of your best Matilda cigars." "I guess you mean a Marguerite," said the clerk. "Oh, yes," he said, "I was thinking of another girl."

Lord Bective lately gave $22,500 for a Canadian cow, which is the largest sum ever given except for the Duchess of Geneva, in New York, two years ago. Lord Bective's mother was sole heiress of Alderman Thompson of London, who left $4,500,000.

The Paris Exposition of 1878 is to cost $3,500,000. The original calculation was about $7,000,000.

Ohio raised 15,000,000 bushels of apples from 381,000 acres of orchards.

Motto for lawyers, "Where there is a will there is a way"—to break it.

Two Kinds of Women.

The streets of New York at night present a spectacle more saddening, more pitiful, more fearful than any picture to be found in Dante's Inferno. Underneath the gas lamp, from dark until long after midnight wander unceasingly thousands of young girls. Their eyes are fixed. They stalk like shadows. There is no merriment in their gait; no joy, no peace, no happiness in their look. However well dressed, it is the same whited sepulcher. For mile after mile these sad spectres hurry along. At each side street they carry off their victims.

Who are these desolate ones who fill the city with their ceaseless tramp? Do they come forth at night because they care not for the society of their mothers and fathers and sisters? Alas no. These ones have no homes. They are alone in a great world, too busy to notice them or their misfortunes. Without a knowledge of the world, they are driven into the midst of its vices, and forced to earn a living by the only means that is within their power. They know not the horrible abyss of shame, the amplitude of suffering, the depth of the distress, to which that first step leads. And so, having begun, they are carried on by the swift current of crime about them. Do they ever seek to escape? They turn blindly for the means, but on every hand they seem shut in by a high wall separating them from the respectable world.

There is no recourse, and so, year after year, they fall lower and lower, and their despair grows deeper, until death takes them for his own and their poor bones are laid away in the potter's field.

There is another class of women in New York. They are not as numerous as their miserable sisters. They have wealth. They live in comfortable homes. They have husbands and happy children. Their time is almost a burden on their hands. With the arrival of each day it is a question, how shall the hours be passed. They look out into the night and behold the closely wrapped female figures hurrying by in the darkness. The sight means nothing to them. It does not even excite a shudder. They themselves are comfortable. Many of them are highly intelligent ladies who long for a vocation. They do not know what to do with their time. They think of devoting themselves to art or to literature. O, women who seek a higher sphere of life; who long for something to do, for some field of usefulness, for something higher and better than a life of idleness, entertainment and novel reading. O, women, you have before you the opportunity. There are your poor, erring sisters passing your door at every hour. They need your assistance. If you have compassion, pity them. You have the power to save. Your wealth and position gave it to you. Go out among them. Gently, patiently labor to bring them to a better life. If you succeed in a whole lifetime of labor in raising up but one such, you have performed a grand charity. Do not complain that you have nothing to do—that you are ennuied. Here is your opportunity. Go. Save.—Daily Republic.

PERENNIAL PLANTS.—The Rural Gentleman has an article on perennial herbaceous plants, for flowering purposes, which takes the ground that of all plants in cultivation they are the least trouble to take care of, as they die down in the fall, some within the ground and others to its surface, and are rapidly increased by dividing the roots and transplanting in spring. Besides, some will bloom for a long time before bedding. They sometime bloom the first season of putting out—always the second season. Most of them bloom till the frost cuts them down, which makes them more desirable, and they should be more generally cultivated; for where a fine collection is grown, and the annuals and others that are put out for summer flowering, they make a fine display. Great improvements have been made of late years to the perennial list of plants, by the hybridizing and raising of the new varieties, which are growing in great demand. Being no necessity to take them up through the winter, but leaving them in open ground without protection, then from spring till fall having some always in bloom, and lasting for years with so little trouble, must bring them into notice of lovers of flowers, especially if they have room to plant them. It would be impossible to give our readers a list of the most desirable perennial flowering plants, owing to the fact that certain kinds do well in some localities and not so well in others. Experience will be the best instructor as to the kinds to choose.

How to Choose a Good Cow.—A crumpled horn is a good indication, a full eye another. Her shoulders should be small and short. Avoid a Roman nose, which indicates thin milk and little of it. See that she is dished in the face—sunk between the eyes. Notice that she is what stock men call a good handler—skin soft and loose, like the skin of a dog. Deep from the loin to the udder, and a very slim tail. A cow with these marks never fails to be a good milker.

It is said that Tom Scott has won the Committee on Railroads, and we hear of bills to be introduced declaring against any and all subsidies. And now what shall it profit a man if he win many Congressmen and lose his subsidy.
